

Aaron E. Farley

Registered Trainee Real Estate Appraiser: NC Registration # T-2558

Aaron Farley has been with the firm for many years and is the backbone of the residential department. He maintains our residential database and provides assistance with all aspects of residential appraisal and valuation services. However, his talents are not limited to the residential sector. When called upon he has completed assignments on the commercial side of the business which have included large acreage tracts, existing and proposed subdivisions, and smaller retail and office properties. Prior to making a career change into the valuation industry he had worked many years in the construction field. As a result he brings significant experience from those years involved in construction to the appraising firm which have been instrumental in providing valuation services especially on the commercial side of the business. He has devoted the past eight plus years exclusively to the valuation industry.

His formal education includes several years of college and numerous industry specific courses and seminars in both the construction and appraisal fields. During his time as an appraiser he has maintained a steady completion of professional course work including not only the classes required for regulatory compliance with the licensing boards but also many additional courses relevant in today's valuation environment.
